Making fire a living part of your home

One great advantage of Vauni's fireplaces is that they can be positioned exactly where you want. They come in designs and sizes to suit most rooms and, because there is no permanent installation, you can move the fireplace as you fancy, just like any other piece of furniture.

The fireplace naturally makes an attractive focal point in the living room, where family and friends gather around the warm glow of the burning fire. Placed in a large hallway, it creates a welcoming ambience when guests arrive.

Not to mention how cosy a bedroom becomes on a damp autumn evening, when all you want to do is tuck up in front of a fire with a good book.

The heat output is 2 to 3 kW depending on the model, which is roughly half that of a wood-burning fireplace. This produces a pleasant heat, without making the room too hot. Put simply, a fireplace adapted for modern houses.

Moreover, our bioethanol fireplaces provide heat in a safe and environmentally-friendly way.

The design process

Designing a fireplace that paraphrases a traditional wood fire presents a considerable challenge. That is never to lose sight of the genuine feelings that a fire inspires – warmth, harmony and community – during the design process.

Vauni's design philosophy is based on the user's emotional need for fire. A great deal of care goes into ensuring that our products are flexible and appealing to people with a variety of needs, tastes and lifestyles.

We design unique products that communicate with the user. All materials are chosen to chime with the fire's values and to express aesthetics, quality and warmth. As a result, the fireplaces are always beautiful, whether a fire is burning in them or not.

Vauni Cupola

With a hemispherical shape similar to the Globe and a light-weight aluminium body, the Vauni Gupola clearly carries the Vauni identity. Its pioneering design and smooth wall installation make for an ideal interior element in the living room, bedroom or anywhere you'd like a mood booster.

The classic, clean shape and compact format ensure that this fireplace perfectly complements modern interior design styles. The characteristic profile, in lightweight aluminium, makes it a unique interior design feature. Cupola is as easy to mount on the wall as a flatscreen TV. Just like Vauni's other models, Cupola is flueless and equipped with the market's most advanced bioethanol burner – which burns without smoke, soot or ash. It produces a pleasant heat and the size of the flame is infinitely adjustable. The result is a safe, no-fuss flueless fire.
